

Searching for a Journal by Title

This handout shows you how to find a specific journal in any EBSCOhost database.

1. Log in to EBSCOhost

- Locate the list of journal titles. You can go directly to the Title List when choosing your database, by clicking the Title List link under the database description.
- It can also be found by clicking the “Publications” link at the top of every page.

2. Search for the journal you need

- Alphabetical (returns all journals in alphabetical order, starting with the term you search). Use this option when you know the title of the journal you need to find.
- By subject & description (returns all journals that have your search term in their subjects as assigned by EBSCO, or in their title)
- Match Any Words (returns all journals that have any of your search terms anywhere).
- After choosing the type of search you want, click Browse.
