

About the Authors

Sarah Barber-Braun is Consulting Minister at The First Universalist Church in Southhold, New York. "True Balance" was given at Collegium 2000.

Jennifer J.S. Brooks is in her final year at Harvard Divinity School and the ministerial intern at Paint Branch UU Church in Adelphi, MD. Brooks is a lawyer who works part-time as a legal consultant to the International Monetary Fund drafting tax legislation for third-world and former Soviet countries. A former research fellow at Harvard's International Tax Program, Ms. Brooks is a graduate of Catholic University (J.D. 1978) and Harvard Law School (LL.M. 1986). Her work in tax policy stimulated her thinking about social and economic justice and led her to the UU ministry.

Burton D. Carley is Minister of the First Unitarian Church in Memphis, Tennessee. "Annie Dillard: Getting a Feel for the Place" was originally given at Praire Group 1995.

William Dean is Professor of Constructive Theology at Iliff School of Theology in Denver, Colorado. He is the author of American Religious Empiricism, History Making History, and The Religious Critic in American Culture, among others. "Process Theology and the American Spiritual Culture" was given in an earlier form at the 1998 Unitarian Universalist General Assembly in Rochester, New York. This version is also published as "Process Historical Theology: A Field in a Map of Thought" in Process Studies 28/3-4 (1999).

Kendyl Gibbons is Senior Minister at First Unitarian Church of Minneapolis, Minnesota and President-Elect of the Unitarian Universalist Minister's Association. "Brushed with a Clean Wing" was originally given at Praire Group 1995.

Davidson Loehr is minister of the First Unitarian Church of Austin, Texas and a member of the Jesus Seminar. He received his Ph.D. in Theology, Philosophy of Religion, and Philosophy of Science from the University of Chicago.

Dawn Sangrey will complete her MDiv at Harvard Divinity School in 2001. She has been a public school English teacher, a teacher of writing in community colleges and prisons, and a freelance writer and editor. Sangrey is the author of Wifestyles: Women Talk About Marriage (Delacorte 1983) and, with Morton Bard, The Crime Victim's Book (Brunner/Mazel 1986). "The Feminization of UU Clergy" was originally given at Colligium 2000.

Brent A. Smith is Senior Minister of Fountian Street Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan. "The Free Church: Revolution and Experiment" was originally given at Fountian Street Church in October 1999.

Jerome A. Stone is Professor Emeritus of Philosophy at William Rainey Harper College, Palatine, Illinois. He is author of A Minimalist Vision of Transcendence (SUNY Press) and Co-editor of The Chicago School of Theology. He recently became an adjunct faculty member at Meadville Lombard Theological School where he will offer a course on 20th Century American Liberal Theology, and is currently working on a study of American religious naturalism.

Glenn H. Turner is recently retired as the District Minister for the North East District of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

Ludger Viefhues, S.J., is a Jesuit priest currently pursuing doctoral studies in Philosophy of Religion at Harvard University. Viefhues published in peer-reviewed journals in Germany and the US on issues of Medical Ethics, Spirituality, and Theology of Religious Life. He studied Philosophy and Roman Catholic Theology in France and in Germany and worked as a chaplain in a Hospice for men and women living with AIDS.